

Andrew Harper's Hideaway Report®

A connoisseur's worldwide guide to peaceful and unspoiled places

What's Hot

↑ Hotel Bel-Air (Los Angeles)— “Stunning grounds,” “great service” and a “romantic restaurant” add up to “pure magic” at this “tranquil urban hideaway.” “Just flawless!”

↑ Mayflower Inn (CT)—Lots of
kudos for the “glamorous new spa” at this “beautiful inn”
enhanced by “topnotch service
and cuisine.”

↑ Miraflores Park (Lima, Peru)
—Everyone loves this “cliffside
jewel” for its “killer Pacific
views” and “super friendly,” “helpful staff.”

↑ The Stafford (London)—
“Just like home” sums up
the essence of this “sublime”
and “personalized little hotel”
with a “caring staff.”

↑ Summer Lodge (England)—
A “warm and welcoming”
Dorset manor offering “comfy-
luxe rooms” and a “first rate
restaurant.”

↑ Le Meurice (Paris)—“Amazing
service,” “luxe rooms,” “splendid dining,” and did we mention,
“its rue de Rivoli location
is perfect!”

↑ Mayflower Inn (CT)—Lots of
kudos for the “glamorous new spa”
at this “beautiful inn” enhanced by “topnotch service and cuisine.”

↑ Singita (South Africa)—
“fabulous” and “fantastic”
safari lodge that “exceeds all expectations.” “Two paws up!”

↑ The Peninsula (Hong Kong)—
More of the usual superlatives:
“Extraordinary,” “unbelievable,” “incredible,” “the best hotel we
have ever stayed anywhere,
period.”

↑ Wakaya Club (Fiji)—An “island paradise” featuring “warmhearted personal service”
and “exceptional amenities”
“Heaven can wait!”

↑ Mollies (Auckland) “Charming
hosts” and “beautiful rooms”
make this “sophisticated manor” “the finest small hotel in the world.”

↔ Inn at Perry Cabin (MD)—
A “lovely Chesapeake Bay gem,” but some are unhappy with the “curt reception desk” and “unresponsive service.” “8 on a scale of 10.”

↔ Hôtel Place d'Armes (Montréal)
—A “stylish,” “nice, but quirky”
boutique hotel, marred by a “poorly trained staff” and so-so
service.”

↓ Hotel de Russie (Rome)— Many “adore this place,” but others cite “lax service,” “worn carpets,” non-functioning
exercise machines” and “guest rooms in need of a re-do.”

↓ Carmel Valley Ranch (CA)—
“Drab rooms,” “outdated baths”
and “s-l-o-w dining room
service” yield “a disappointing
experience.” “Bernardus is so much better!”
